

permanently rise higher than the main source; and the main source of national power and national greatness is found in the average citizenship of the nation. Therefore, it behooves us to do our best to see that the standard of the average citizen is kept high, and the average cannot be kept high unless the standard of the leaders is very much higher.

"It is well if a large proportion of the leaders in any republic, in any democracy, are as a matter of course, drawn from the classes represented in this audience to-day; but only provided that those classes possess the gifts of sympathy with plain people and of devotion to great ideals. You and those like you have received special advantages; you have all of you had the opportunity for mental training; many of you have had leisure; most of you have had a chance for the enjoyment of life far greater than comes to the majority of your fellows. To you and your kind much has been given, and from you much should be expected.

Not Critic Who Counts.
"It is not the critic who counts; not the man who points out how the strong man stumbles, or where the door of deeds could have been done better. The credit belongs to the man who is actually in the arena, whose face is marred by dust and sweat and blood; who strives valiantly; who errs, and comes short again and again; but because there is no effort without error and shortcoming; but who does actually strive to do the deeds; who knows the great enthusiasms, the great devotions; who spends himself in a worthy cause; who at the best knows in the end the triumph of high achievement, and who at the worst, if he fails, at least fails while daring greatly, so that his place shall never be with those cold and timid souls who know neither victory nor defeat. Shame on the man of cultivated tastes who permits refinement to develop in a fastidiousness that unites him for doing the rough work of a workaday world. Among the free peoples who govern themselves, there is but a small field of usefulness open for the men of cloistered life who shrink from contact with their fellows.

"Still less room is there for those who deride or slight what is done by those who actually bear the brunt of the day; nor yet for those others who always profess that the conditions of life were not what they actually are, and all homage to intellect, and to elaborate and specialized training of the intellect; and yet I know I shall have the assent of all of you present when I add that more important still are the commonplace, every-day qualities and virtues.

Every-Day Qualities.
"Such ordinary, every-day qualities include the will and the power to work, to fight at need, and to have plenty of healthy children. There are a few people in every country so born that they can lead lives of leisure. These fill a useful function if they make it evident that leisure does not mean idleness. But the average man must earn his own livelihood. He should be trained to do so, and he should be trained to feel that he occupies a contemptible position if he does not do so; that he is not an object of envy if he is idle, at whichever end of the social scale he stands, but an object of contempt, an object of derision.

"In the next place, the good man should be both a strong and a brave man; that is, he should be able to fight, he should be able to serve his country as a soldier if the need arises. There are well-meaning philanthropists who declaim against the unrighteousness of war. They are right only if they lay all their emphasis upon the unrighteousness.

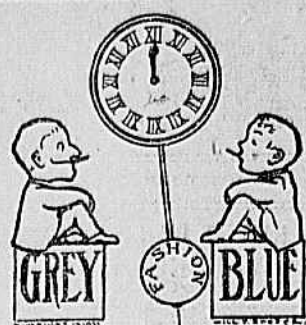

"War is a dreadful thing, and unjust war is a crime against humanity. But it is such a crime because it is unjust, not because it is war. The choice must ever be in favor of righteousness, and this whether the alternative be peace or whether the alternative be war. The question must be, is it right to prevail? Are the great laws of righteousness once more to be fulfilled? And the answer from a strong and virtuous people must be, 'Yes' whatever the cost.

"Finally, even more important than ability to work, even more important than ability to fight at need, is it to remember that the chief of blessings now to inherit the land. It was the crown of blessings in biblical times, and it is the crown of blessings now. The greatest of all curses is the curse of sterility, and the severest of all condemnations should be that visited upon willful sterility. The first essential in any civilization is that the man and the woman shall be father and mother of healthy children, so that the race shall increase and not decrease. If this is not so, if through no fault of society there is failure to increase, it is a great misfortune. If the failure is due to deliberate and wilful fault, then it is not merely a misfortune; it is one of those crimes of ease and self-indulgence, of shrinking from pain and effort and risk, which in the long run nature punishes more heavily than any other.

"If we of the great republics, if we, the free people who claim to have emancipated ourselves from the thralldom of wrong and error, bring down on our heads the curse that comes upon the wilfully barren, then it will be an idle waste of breath to prattle of our achievements, to boast of all that we have done. No refinement of life, no delicacy of taste, no material progress, no sordid heaping up of riches, no sensuous development of art and literature, can in any way compensate for the loss of the great fundamental virtues, and of these great fundamental virtues, the greatest is the race's power to perpetuate the race.

Two Sets of Qualities.
"In short, the good citizen in a republic must realize that he ought to possess two sets of qualities, and that neither avails without the other. He must have those qualities which make for efficiency; and he must also have those qualities which direct the efficiency into channels for the public good. He is useless if he is inefficient. There is nothing to be done with that type of citizen of whom all that can be said is that he is harmless. Virtue which is dependent upon a sluggish circulation is not impressive. There is little place in active life for the timid good man. The man who is saved by weakness from robust wickedness is likewise rendered immune from the robust virtues.

"The good citizen in a republic must first of all be able to hold his own. He is no good citizen unless he has Fashion's pendulum is now swinging between grey and blue in suits.

We're in full swing with a timely collection of both and they are styles that will strike 12 every time—no "seconds"—only the best of the best.

$15 to $35.
Youths, $10 to $25.

Good taste in greys.

The neatest, quietest fabrics are always favorites.

Bound to be, because they're so satisfactory to the wearer and his friends.

Monotonous? How impossible, with so many of the quiet greys relieved by stripes and overplaids of brighter hues to give 'em snap.

For livelier taste—browns, for one thing.

Little things for little boys in a department all their own. Reefers coats and hats for girls.

Liveries—

Uniforms—

Whatever the character or the occasion, you'll find the right thing in our stock.

If not, we've facilities for supplying you any special styles at short notice.

Any new kink you may want in the shirt we make to your taste, besides the comfortable fit we always give, costs you no more.

Skilled man to measure you. Skilled workmen to execute the orders—

Your orders as well as ours! Perhaps a thousand patterns to select from.

O. H. Berry & Co.
Successors to the Merchant Tailors.

decrease. If this is not so, if through no fault of society there is failure to increase, it is a great misfortune. If the failure is due to deliberate and wilful fault, then it is not merely a misfortune; it is one of those crimes of ease and self-indulgence, of shrinking from pain and effort and risk, which in the long run nature punishes more heavily than any other.

"If we of the great republics, if we, the free people who claim to have emancipated ourselves from the thralldom of wrong and error, bring down on our heads the curse that comes upon the wilfully barren, then it will be an idle waste of breath to prattle of our achievements, to boast of all that we have done. No refinement of life, no delicacy of taste, no material progress, no sordid heaping up of riches, no sensuous development of art and literature, can in any way compensate for the loss of the great fundamental virtues, and of these great fundamental virtues, the greatest is the race's power to perpetuate the race.

Two Sets of Qualities.
"In short, the good citizen in a republic must realize that he ought to possess two sets of qualities, and that neither avails without the other. He must have those qualities which make for efficiency; and he must also have those qualities which direct the efficiency into channels for the public good. He is useless if he is inefficient. There is nothing to be done with that type of citizen of whom all that can be said is that he is harmless. Virtue which is dependent upon a sluggish circulation is not impressive. There is little place in active life for the timid good man. The man who is saved by weakness from robust wickedness is likewise rendered immune from the robust virtues.

"The good citizen in a republic must first of all be able to hold his own. He is no good citizen unless he has

INDESTRUCTO One of the Many Good Things We Show

ONE INDESTRUCTO TRUNK TRAVELLED 60,000 MILES—IN SAFETY.

Since that famous "round the world" trip of the "Globe Trotter", hundreds of Indestructo Trunks have traveled astonishing distances—all in safety.

Indestructo Trunks have proved that they can travel further without repair than any other trunk made.

The Indestructo is built strong—so strong that the hardest jolts have little effect on its rigid construction.

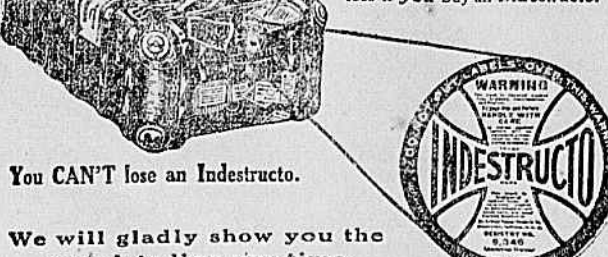

The makers furnish with each Indestructo Trunk a FREE FIVE YEAR INSURANCE POLICY against fire—accident—wreck and collision.

Isn't that sufficient proof to you that Indestructo Trunks have a marked advantage over other baggage?

The Indestructo has exclusive merits that make it the Convenient Trunk. The trays are arranged for your comfort—light—clean—and sanitary—no corners to collect the dirt.

Buy an Indestructo Trunk—it will give you real service. Come down to our store. Let us show you the trunk—we know you will appreciate its many advantages if you see it.

The REGISTRY LABEL BELOW
The "Globe Trotter" going in the right direction for 60,000 miles. It will protect YOUR baggage against loss if you buy an Indestructo.

You CAN'T lose an Indestructo.

We will gladly show you the complete line any time.

O. H. Berry & Co.,
Travelers' Supply House.

DRUNKEN MINERS CRUICIFY VICTIM

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Wheeling, W. Va., April 23.—From the obscure mining hamlet of Avella, Pa., across the border line, comes the following account of an actual crucifixion in the twentieth century, which seems almost beyond belief.

A man was crucified early to-day in a lonely spot on the outskirts of Avella.

The discovery of the dead man was followed by a pitched battle between a sheriff's posse and a band of miners, and sentiment throughout the district is so menacing that a general call for the armed aid of all citizens has been sent out by the authorities.

Peaceable citizens were stunned by the news of the crucifixion. The victim was George Rabish, a mine boss of the Pittsburgh and Washington Company.

The miners thought he was a spy for the company. A few of them seized him yesterday afternoon and dragged him to the outskirts of the town where he was badly beaten before the day superintendent, C. E. Neiser, led a party to his rescue. Four miners were arrested and fined $100 each, which means prison for them.

All last night the miners were in session, consuming liquors. At dawn they set out on a march through the town, crying, "Down with the traitor!" "Death to the spy!"

By the time they reached the home of Rabish they had fomented their excitement to a dangerous pitch. The leaders tore the door off its hinges and as many of the mob as could rush into the dwelling, Rabish was dragged from his bed and driven out into the street amid the jeers of the merciless throng. They led him out of the village to the scene of previous beatings.

As if the whole fearful scene had been carefully planned beforehand, several men set about fashioning a huge cross out of mine timbers. They even pressed a crown of thorns upon his temples. After they had nailed him to the cross, the final blasphemy was to dance and sing about the still living man.

The morning was well advanced before they started on their return march to town. But the sheriff had no more than started for the scene of the killing than fifty armed citizens rallied to his call. They met the miners on the road. Those in the mob who had revolvers opened fire. It was promptly returned and amid a general fusillade three men fell wounded. The miners were put to flight and four of them captured. They were locked up on the charge of murder.

Deputies from Washington, Pa., were rushed to Avella to prevent an attempt to free the imprisoned miners. They took them to the Washington jail. The citizens are in dread that their homes will be pillaged. The crowds march through the streets tonight, singing and shouting.

OBITUARY

Albert Blair.
Albert Blair, formerly a well-known merchant of Richmond, died suddenly yesterday morning at his home at Lorton, Va., aged eighty-eight years. He was the son of Samuel Blair and grandson of "Parson" Blair, the first pastor of the Grace Street Presbyterian Church, and one of the unique figures of early Richmond. The funeral will take place from the Grace Street Presbyterian Church this morning at 3 o'clock.

Mr. Blair had been living away from Richmond for six or eight years. He was at one time in the coal business here. He was a bachelor, and had been for a number of years a deacon of the Grace Street Presbyterian Church. He is survived by a wide connection in Richmond.

Funeral of Mr. Binford.
The funeral of Thomas Edward Binford took place from his late residence, 2216 Stuart Avenue, at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Services were conducted by Rev. J. B. Hutson, pastor of Pine Street Baptist Church, and interment was in Riverside Cemetery.

The pall-bearers, intimate friends of the deceased, were: W. Galloway, W. S. McIntosh, P. C. Ombund, J. M. Swift, L. D. Cosby, J. W. Hall, E. Dickenson, T. B. Dowell, C. W. Butterworth, R. L. Eubank and W. M. Miller.

Dr. John H. Wilson.
[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Danville, Va., April 23.—Dr. John H. Wilson, aged eighty-nine years, one of the most prominent medical business men in this section, died at his country home, "Oak Ridge," about twelve miles from Danville, yesterday evening at 6 o'clock, following an illness of several years' duration. His death was due to old age. He is survived by two sons, Dr. John H. Wilson and Dr. Jesse Wood, both of "Oak Ridge." He was a member of the Church of Epiphany, and the funeral services will take place from the residence Sunday afternoon, conducted by Rev. J. Cleveland Hall, of this city. Interment will be made in the family burying ground.

Frank Sessions.
[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Fayetteville, N. C., April 23.—Frank Sessions, of Point Caswell, died at the home of his brother, E. Sessions, in this county, yesterday. He had been ill for about two weeks. He was fifty-six years of age.

Mrs. Fidelity H. Carhart.
[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Cape Charles, Va., April 23.—Mrs. Fidelity Carhart, widow of John Carhart, died at the home of her son, M. D. Carhart, yesterday.

DEATHS
RUST—MRS. MARIA RUST entered into rest Monday, April 18, at her home, in Waynesboro, Va. She was born in Reading, England, November 16, 1829. She was married to Dr. M. A. Rust in December, 1859, and came to Richmond in 1864. After the death of Dr. Rust, she made her home with her daughter, in Waynesboro, Va. She is survived by an only child, Mrs. W. J. Lott, and five grandchildren—W. J. Lott, and Moritz A. R. Lott, of the Virginia Military Institute; Carl C. Francis, and J. E. Ellison, of Lotts.

The body reached Richmond on the Chesapeake and Ohio, at 2:45 P. M. Wednesday, April 20, and was taken to Hollywood, where the services were concluded by the Rev. W. Russell Bowie, rector of St. John's Episcopal Church, Waynesboro. The pall-bearers were: P. W. J. Jr., Moritz A. R. Lott and William H. Talbott, of Waynesboro; O. H. Rust, of Richmond; D. C. Clatter and Henry S. Butzler, of Richmond.

ALLNUTT—MRS. ROBERT D. ALLNUTT, of Powhatan county, Va., entered into rest on the 26th of March, 1910. Her husband, Mr. Robert D. Allnutt, a practical turn, which made her loss more deeply felt by her church, her family and the community in which she lived. With a heart as tender and pure as a child's, and a sympathy for those in trouble, it was not difficult for her to render herself to all who knew her. Marked by a strong Christian character, a self-denial and a love for the Master and His cause, we think she deserves a place in the memory of those who were fortunate enough to have known her. Her funeral will be held at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. J. H. Allnutt, at 10:30 A. M. on Sunday, April 24. Friends and acquaintances invited to attend.

BLAIR—Died, suddenly, Saturday morning, April 23, 1910, at Lorton, Va. Mr. ALBERT BLAIR.

Funeral THIS (Sunday) MORNING from Grace Street Presbyterian Church, Fourth and Grace Streets, at 10 o'clock. Friends requested to attend.

CHRISTIAN—Died, at the residence of his aunt, Mrs. L. A. Douglas, ALVIN WILSON, infant son of Harry Seabrook and the late Emma Weaver Christian, aged three months and twenty-three days.

Funeral THIS AFTERNOON at 4 o'clock from the residence of friends and acquaintances invited to attend.

DANSEY—Died, Saturday, April 23, 1910, at 4 P. M. LILLIE PARKER DANSEY, widow of Thomas H. Dansey, in the fifty-fourth year of her age.

Funeral SUNDAY at 4:30 P. M. from the residence, 2216 East Grace, Baltimore and Tarboro, N. C. papers please copy.

GIFF—Died, suddenly, at St. Luke's Hospital, April 23, 1910, at 10:15 P. M. JAMES GIFF, aged 74 years.

Funeral notice later.

MALLOY—Died, Tuesday, April 12, 1910, at her home, in Hanover county, at which place, in the old family burying-ground, her remains were interred. She is survived by three brothers—John, William, Melvyn, of Beaver Dam; Mr. Lucius E. Malloy, and Mr. C. F. Malloy; and a sister—Mrs. Bettle C. Schenberger, of Richmond.

RUST—Entered into rest Monday, April 18, at Waynesboro, Va. MARIA RUST, widow of Dr. M. A. Rust, of Richmond, Va.

Interment, in Hollywood.

Cable Ad. Sunday, April 24.

If, for a reasonable sum of money, one should agree to instantly make it possible for you to play any piece of music on an ordinary piano, wouldn't you? But why ask the question. Certainly you would pay the price immediately.

That's practically what is made possible for you if you possess

The INNER-PLAYER Piano?

A liberal allowance made on Upright Pianos taken in exchange.

You, who never took a lesson on the piano—not knowing one note from another—being absolutely without the slightest musical education—can, with the Inner-Player Piano, play any one of twenty-five thousand selections at will, better than many pianists who have studied and practiced for years.

The Inner-Player Piano is the world's latest and greatest development of the piano. It appeals to all, even to the experienced pianist. The musician's repertoire is largely increased, and the preliminary practice on the Inner-Player Piano gives greater insight to compositions to be played in the ordinary way—for the Inner-Player Piano can also be played by hand if the player so desires.

Only by a personal visit to the sales-rooms of the Cable Piano Company can this marvellous instrument be seen, heard and tested. We cordially invite you to call.

Harrison, at this place Thursday. Mrs. Carhart arrived here twelve days ago from her home in Easton, Pa., having made the long journey alone. Shortly after her arrival she was taken sick, and gradually grew worse until relieved by death.

Mrs. Helen Johnson.
[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Union Level, Va., April 23.—Mrs. Helen Johnson, wife of G. Johnson, died Thursday night at 6 o'clock after a very brief illness. She was the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Johnson, of Wightman, Va., and leaves one brother, C. F. Johnson, of that place.

Willoughby Newton Smith.
[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Baltimore, Md., April 23.—Willoughby Newton Smith died at his home in this city yesterday. Mr. Smith was for many years one of the best known lawyers of the city, and was prominent in club and social life. He was born in Winchester, Va., February 11, 1850, and was the son of the late John Philip Smith, and Sally Bland Newton Smith. On his maternal side he was a grandson of the late Willoughby Newton, of Westmoreland county, Va.

Mr. Smith was educated at the Shenandoah Valley Academy, Winchester, and at the University of Virginia. He read law with his grandfather, Willoughby Newton, and was admitted to the Baltimore bar in 1874. Prior to that he had done newspaper work in Baltimore, during the railroad riots of the '60's.

Mr. Smith was a lieutenant in the Seventh Regiment under Colonel James Howard, and saw service at St. Johns Run.

James De T. Douglas.
[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Winchester, Va., April 23.—A message from San Francisco, Cal., announces the death of James De T. Douglas, son of the late Judge I. R. Douglas, of Charlottesville, W. Va., after a brief illness. He was one of the cadets of the Virginia Military Institute who made the famous charge at New Market during the Civil War.

Mr. Douglas was a law professor in a college at San Francisco, and was seriously injured in the great earthquake, which incapacitated him for active duty. His widow, who was Miss Bowyer, of Botetourt county, Va., is one son, one brother and one sister, Mrs. Smith.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
South Hill, Va., April 23.—P. F. Smith, one of the county's oldest citizens, died at his home in this place yesterday afternoon, after an illness of several months. He was eighty-three years old, and is survived by his wife and five children. The interment will take place at the old family burying-ground near Ople tomorrow afternoon.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Blacksburg, Va., April 23.—Escorted by the cadet corps, in full uniform, the institute band, chaplains of the college, President Barringer and the faculty, the body of Cadet I. N. Hardy was carried from the hospital to the railway station this morning and placed aboard the train, to be taken to Chass City for burial. In the funeral party from here were young Hardy's mother, relatives from Richmond and several college mates.

FUNERAL NOTICE

EMORY—The funeral of MR. THOMAS C. EMORY, who died at his home, in Henrico county, Wednesday, will take place from the home TH. A. TERNON at 3 o'clock. Interment on the farm.

IN MEMORIAM

DILLON—In loving remembrance of EUGENE THOMAS DILLON, who departed this life seven years ago Sunday, April 25, 1903.

Dearest Eugene, thou hast left us: We thy loss most deeply feel; But 'tis God that has bereft us. He can all our sorrows heal.

Our Father, in His wisdom, called The form his love had given; And though on earth his body lies, The soul is safe in heaven.

MOTHER AND SISTER.

May 1-'10

Did You Ever Try

To save money? Its largely a matter of habit. You start with one dollar, then you add other dollars regularly and persistently. We add 3 per cent. interest, and so it goes—and thus it grows.

I will move my general office from 1201 West Broad three blocks above, to 1506 WEST BROAD. As I have about 500 cords of perfectly dry Oak and Pine at this yard, and only one week to move it, I want all of my regular customers and others that want a perfect load of Wood to call Madison 1069.

The Wood Man

Capital, Surplus & Profits, $1,500,000.

Write for booklet, "Banking by Mail."

PLANTERS NATIONAL BANK

Write for booklet, "Banking by Mail."

Write for booklet, "Banking by Mail."

Write for booklet, "Banking by Mail."

Write for booklet, "Banking by Mail."

Write for booklet, "Banking by Mail."

Write for booklet, "Banking by Mail."

Write for booklet, "Banking by Mail."

Write for booklet, "Banking by Mail."

Write for booklet, "Banking by Mail."

Write for booklet, "Banking by Mail."

Write for booklet, "Banking by Mail."

Write for booklet, "Banking by Mail."

Write for booklet, "Banking by Mail."

Write for booklet, "Banking by Mail."

Write for booklet, "Banking by Mail."

Write for booklet, "Banking by Mail."

Write for booklet, "Banking by Mail."

Write for booklet, "Banking by Mail."

Write for booklet, "Banking by Mail."

Write for booklet, "Banking by Mail."

Write for booklet, "Banking by Mail."

Write for booklet, "Banking by Mail."

Write for booklet, "Banking by Mail."

Write for booklet, "Banking by Mail."

Write for booklet, "Banking by Mail."

Write for booklet, "Banking by Mail."

Write for booklet, "Banking by Mail."

Write for booklet, "Banking by Mail."

Write for booklet, "Banking by Mail."

Write for booklet, "Banking by Mail."

Write for booklet, "Banking by Mail."

Write for booklet, "Banking by Mail."

Write for booklet, "Banking by Mail."

Write for booklet, "Banking by Mail."

Write for booklet, "Banking by Mail."

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Cures
All Spring Humors and Ailments.

It Purifies, Enriches and Revitalizes the Blood,
Strengthens the Nerves, Aids Digestion,
Creates Appetite and Builds up the Whole System.

Peculiar to itself in its wonderful efficacy as a spring medicine, Hood's Sarsaparilla has made itself thousands of constant friends who avail themselves of its blood-purifying, strength-giving properties every year.

Taken Every Spring—"One spring I was feeling bad, and could not do my housework for a family of three. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla and it did me so much good, I have taken it every spring since." Mrs. J. Johnson, Manchester, N. H.

THE WEATHER